St. Louis, April 26.—A great running one handed catch of Charles' liner by Heine Zimmerman in the eighth inning when St. Louis had two men on the bags, resulting in a double play, saved the Cubs from defeat in the final game of the series here yesterday afternoon, Chicago winning 5 to 4. Pfiester had been knocked off the mound by Bresnahan's batsmen in the fifth, and Overall went in after four Cardinals had scored. Overall was hit hard also. Rhodes, spitball artist for St. Louis, twirled masterly ball. The score:

NO PRAISE TOO HIGH FOR THE CUTICURA REMEDIES

"When my little Vivian was about six months old, her papa had a boil on his forehead. At that time the child was covered with prickly heat and I suppose in scratching it, her own head became infected for it broke out in boils, one after another. She had about sixty in all and I used Cuticura Cointment which cured her of them entirely. Then, sometime later, her little foot got sore between the toes. Being afraid it was sait rheum, I speke to our doctor. He gave me a powder which dried it up, but soon after it broke out behind her ears. They cracked half way around and the humer spread up on to her head until, on several occasions, it was nearly half covered. The humor looked like a scald, very red with a sticky, clear fluid coming from it. This occurred every year. I think it was toward the spring. I always bathed it with warm water and Cuticura Soap and applied Cuticura Cointment which never failed to heal it up. The last time it broke out was when she was six years old. It became so bad that I was discouraged. Then I procured a bottle of Cuticura Resolvent which soon cleared it out of her blood. I continued the use of Cuticura Soap and Ointment with the Resolvent until she was perfectly well. She is now about eight years old and has never been troubled in the last two years. We also find Cuticura Resolvent Pills as a tonic. We do not think any one can praise Cuticura Remedies too highly. Mrs. M. A. Schwerin, 674 Spring Wells as a tonic. Orators Were the Snappier in Field Play But the Authors Were There With the Artie Roemer took the aeroplane route in the tenth inning of the open ing game Saturday and when the ballast gave out Waterbury had scored five runs which was too hig of a handicap for the Orators to overcome Up to the fatal tenth, however, the game was a good one to watch for the shivering fans as neither side had the better of the argument. Waterbury's ability to bunch their hits with the fifts of Roemer allowed the game. Bridgeport played a fine fielding game only two errors being made. The first ball batted went at George Bannon. The wind gave it a zig-zag course and it fell out of George's mit. The other was a wild heave into center field by Kocher to catch Doherty off second base.

In the field Waterbury was very weird contributing eight errors Bridgeport started the scoring in the fourth. After two were down Bannon hit into left for a single, stole second. went to third on a wild throw of Schincel, and came home when Rogers let Bourquin's grounder get away from him. Bourquin was caught at second by Schincel's throw but Rogers dropped the ball. Kocher sent one between third and pitcher which Bannister threw into the bleachers, Bourquin scoring, and Kocher taking third. Roemer went out on a fly to Rogers. scoring, and Kocher taking third.
Roemer went out on a fly to Rogers.
Waterbury evened up matters in the sixth. With one down Roemer gave Bannister a pass, Cote singled to right, Bannister taking third. Swander struck out and Cote stole second. Nichols sent both home with a single to left. It was now a tie up to the ninth. Doherty, first up, was given a free pass, was advanced to second on Rogers' self killer, went to third on Kocher's wild heave to catch him leading off second. Schincel was also given a free pass and stole second. Bannister's single sent both men home. Bannister moved up to second when Roemer plumped Cote in the elbow. Swander's single into left sent Bannister home. Nichols and Bronkle each came in for singles sending in Cote and Swander ahead of them. Miller ended the agony by going out, second to the agony by going out, second to Bridgeport took a dangerous look in their half, the fans seeing visions of a victory. Miller the first up made his third two bagger. McKenna who relieved Mitchell in right reached first on Bronkie's error of his grounder. Miller scored when Cote dropped Hilt's high fly. Ladd flew out to left field. Marty Phelan raised a kick when Umpire Murray called him out at first when it looked safe. Bannon flew out to Swander. The end. The score: Bridgeport took a dangerous look i

HOTEL CELLS.

Difference Between Them and Those of the Jails.

The chief difference between the av erage hotel cell and the average prison cell, viewed from the standpoint of social psychology, is that one is locked on the inside to keep outsiders out, while the other is locked on the outside to keep insiders in. The occupant of the hotel cell is afraid that something will be done to him or that some thing will be taken from he by some one who ought to be in a prison cell That is the theory of it.

"Lock your door and leave your valuables at the office," cautions the obliging innkeeper. "If you had valuables you wouldn't be here," observes the witty prison keeper. That is to say, the question of valuables seems to enter largely into the matter. It would be great to have a civilization which considered valuable only those things which could not be stolen. such as mental and moral equipment, skill and good fellowship. Then we could be a little more sociable. We could talk to each other without buttoning our coats or feeling for our diamond studs every few minutes. Then the man who willingly secluded himself in a stuffy hotel cell could be locked in and made to stay there on the ground that something terrible was the matter with him.-Success Maga-

THEATRICAL COSTUMES.

The Man Who Supplies Them Must Be Artistic and Well Read.

An extensive library is an absolute necessity to the theatrical costsmer. At the head of every theatrical costuming establishment there is a man The Park Commission with Mayor Lee made an inspection of the parks yesterday in three big automobiles, looking over the work being done and laid out by Supt. C. H. Keith. The party was particularly interested in the development of the Hatheway tract is to be produced he must map out the produced he must m lines on which the costuming is to be done, and those lines must be absolutely accurate. There is a wide difference between the French costumes of Napoleon's time and those worn by Jeanne d'Arc and her friends. The chief designer must know it and act on his knowledge. At the time Custer fought his last fight the United States army-cavalry and infantrywas outfitted in a peculiar manner that has long since passed away. If the play deals with American army life of that period the costumes must show it, for it would never do to have the critics "roast" the piece because the producers were ignorant of the thing produced. The man at the head of the costuming department must cither be conversant with all countries and all periods of history or he must know how to become so with decided alacrity: hence the costumer's library. -New Orleans Times-Democrat.

A FRONTIER MARKSMAN.

Wild Bill Hickok's Skill In Use of the

Six Shooter. Wild Bill Hickok was the first frontiersman who recognized the importance of proficiency in the use of the six shooter. This was the real secret of his supremacy. He was an unerring marksman and shot as accurately under fire as when firing at a mark, apparently taking no aim.

Probably no man has ever equaled him in the lightning-like rapidity with which he could draw a weapon in time of emergency and in the thorough self possession that made it possible for him to take advantage of every opportunity in savage conflict. He had a standing order to his deputies that they should not rush in on him in any of his affrays and especially should not come quickly up in the rear.

By forgetting this a man named Williams met his death at Abilene, Hickok taking him for an enemy and firing so rapidly that it left no opportunity for recognition. He readily killed a wild goose across the Smoky Hill with his revolver. Riding at his horse's highest speed, he fired shot after shot into a tin can or a post a few rods distant.

Standing at one telegraph pole, he would swing rapidly on his beel and them," said her friend. "That is a fire a pistol ball into the next telegraph pole. CONJURED A TREATY.

How Houdin, the Magician, Awed the Arabs Into Submission.

During the French conquest of Algeria (1830-3) negotiations for peace were entered upon with the sheiks of certain Arab tribes, and a meeting for the settlement of terms was arranged to take place at the French headquarters. The French officers received their guests with great hospitality, and day you promised to nail the leg on after the banquet given in their honor, ployed in order to dazzle their eyes where M. Hondin, the celebrated conforces, gave an exhibition of his skill.

They stared in open mouthed wonder at all the tricks that were performed. and a feeling of awe crept over them as they witnessed the mysterious ap-pearance and disappearance of various objects. But what appeared to them most marvelous was the apparent manufacture of cannon balls. M. Houdin passed round among them a high hat, which they examined very carefully, but without suspecting anything unusual in either its make or its appearance. When the hat was returned to him the conjurer placed it on the floor in the middle of the stage in full? view of his audience. He then proceeded to take from the hat cannon balls apparently without number and rolled them across the floor into the wings. With this the performance terminated. The chiefs then consulted among themselves and came to the conclusion that it was useless to offer any opposition to an army that could turn out its ammunition in so easy a manner. They therefore signed the required treaty and departed to tell their friends in the desert of the wonderful power of the invaders.
